Gregory James

AUSTRALIAN CRIME FICTION AUTHOR

Former detective turned crime fiction author, Gregory James writes from the heart; both his own and the heart of the country he spent many years as a policeman. From the streets of the inner city to remote frontier country, his stories of cops and criminals will capture the imagination. His debut novel Bordertown follows the story of a young detective outcast to the bush after accidentally shooting his partner. What he finds is a world of corruption, racism and murder that sees him fighting for his very survival.
